Lanthier seeks zoning change in Hanover

Winery, distillery, microbrewery would be on West Lagrange Road

BY BOB DEMAREE

Hanover Town Council on Thursday took the first step toward changing its zoning ordinance to allow a production and retail farm winery, artisan distillery and microbrewery to locate and operate at a site on West Lagrange Road.

Tami Hagemier operates Lanthier Winery in downtown Madison with her husband, Chris Lanthier, and they seeking the zoning changes to develop a production and retail winery, distillery and microbrewery at property now owned by Warren Auxier and Auxier Investments at 431 West Lagrange Road, Hanover.

She said the business would have "retail and production that would develop a tourism trade you haven't had before. We're looking to do production as well as retail," Hagemier said. "Thank you so much for your support. We truly appreciate it, and are excited about working with Auxier Investments and the town of Hanover."

"We're excited you're coming," said Town Board Member Treva Shelton.

"More business in this town is what we need," added Board President Kenny Garrett.

Asked about the proposal after the meeting, Auxier said the project is still in the works, and the property has not yet been sold. He said the zoning needs to be in place before the project officially moves forward.

Hanover Town Board approved a resolution supporting the proposal as it goes before the Hanover Plan Commission next week seeking an amendment to zoning at the site. Hagemier was specific in what she hoped the resolution would say.

"I want to make sure it reads small farm winery, artisan distillery, microbrewery," she said. "Deviations from those may open up doors that you don't intend. Distillery would be something like Seagram's. An artisan distillery would be more fitting for the town. Small farm winery is a state classification. Microbrewery speaks for itself."

Devon Sharpe, attorney for the town, said he will be reviewing the definition prior to when the Hanover Plan Commission meets at 6 p.m. on Monday to review the request for the amendment.

Auxier said part of project also involves the need for an extension of the Hanover sewer line to the property. He said Auxier Investments would pay 100% of the cost for installing the sewer line.

Hanover Clerk-Treasurer/Town Administrator Keith Mefford said developing the sewer line makes sense, but he wants to make sure "it's going the right direction and doing what makes most sense logistically."

The board approved the new sewer line pending approval by Scott Williams, the town's utilities and street superintendent who was unable to attend the meeting.

Drained for repairs

Ken Ritchie

A barge moves upriver toward the 1,200-foot main chamber of the Markland Locks and Dam on the Ohio River while another passes through while the smaller, 600-foot auxiliary chamber sits closed to barge and other boat traffic for repairs to the upper miter gate. The lock will remain drained during repairs by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Heavy Capacity Repair Fleet. It is expected to return to full service next month if repairs go as planned.

Holcomb extends COVID-19 emergency through Oct. 31

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb this week extended his statewide COVID-19 emergency declaration through Oct. 31.

"The virus remains in every county throughout Indiana," Holcomb said in the order, noting that the state has now surpassed 15,000 COVID-19 deaths. In the last four days, the Indiana Department of Health has reported 215 new deaths during the pandemic, bringing the state's overall total to 15,132. Given Indiana's population of 6.7 million, that means about one in every 445 Hoosiers has died from the coronavirus.

On Wednesday, the Associated Press reported Dr. Kristina Box, the state health commissioner, said Indiana's hospital system remained stressed even though the steep surge in COVID-19 illnesses, hospitalizations and deaths since late July have declined slightly over the past couple of weeks.

Box said Indiana's COVID-19 hospitalizations and deaths could rise again, as they did during last winter's major surge, while urging more Hoosiers to get vaccinated for both COVID-19 and seasonal flu.

"I do have some concerns about that, that this bleed off with COVID vaccines and the political nature that has surrounded that will then bleed off into other childhood vaccines and influenza vaccines that people tend to get on a yearly basis," Box said.

The total deaths during the pandemic in the State of Kentucky is now at 8,770. Though the week-over-week case volume has not increased in Kentucky for three consecutive weeks, the state's virus death toll has yet to markedly drop.

The Kentucky Department for Public Health reported 82 new deaths Wednesday and 53 new deaths Thursday. Gov. Andy Beshear called the plateau of COVID-19 positive cases "good news" on Monday, but "the tough news is that we are still seeing far too many deaths."

In Carroll County, the total deaths during the pandemic increased this week to 23 after two newly reported deaths. Reported deaths in Jefferson County remains at 92 with Switzerland County at 10 and Trimble County at 9.

Jefferson County remains in the "Orange" metric for medium to high spread with an 11.5% positivity rate with 25 new positive cases in the last day. Switzerland Countyt is still "Red" for high spread with a 13.35% positivity rate. Incidence rates in Trimble and Carroll are keeping both counties in the "Red" for high spread. The postivity rate in Trimble County is 17.92% while the rate for Carroll County is 15.91%.

Parent voices quarantine concerns to Southwestern School Board

BY BOB DEMAREE

Frustrated over a quarantine that's keeping her daughter out of school, Valerie Long approached Southwestern School Board at this week's meeting on why the district does not enforce a mask mandate.

"My daughter was on quarantine for two weeks, and when I asked her what she had done for day, she said she had watched three movies and took a nap because she did not have enough work to do during quarantine," said Long.

"So, please explain to me why we are not doing a mask mandate so that there are no more quarantines," said Long, who began her comments by reading the school corporation's attendance policy.

Board president Rick Stockdale said the answer is complicated in that mask mandates will not end quarantines under the executive order that Gov. Eric Holcomb put in place Sept. 1 and now extended through Oct. 31.

"His policy says if you are masked, you are still subject to quarantine," Stockdale said. "Our policy that we voted on beforehand was going to do that. His policy was you can be more restrictive than his plan, but you can't be less restrictive. Ours that we voted on before would have been less restrictive."

Southwestern's policy approved at an Aug. 30 meeting would have continued to make masks optional, but would have provided that students who do mask would not have to quarantine.

Long, a cheerleading coach at Southwestern, noted, "I told my kids to wear a mask. I told my cheerleaders to wear a mask so they don't get quarantined. They literally wore a mask for days when they were told that policy didn't stand, so they wore a mask for no reason."

"I get the fact that it's crazy," Stockdale said, adding that he's had a child home on quarantine who "has never shown a symptom" of COVID-19. "The problem is finding the magic buffer between all the grounds to give the best opportunities. We all agree the kids need to be in school."

Long said when her daughter quarantines, she stresses because she may be falling behind on her

Public nudity, extortion call leads to arrests

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Police responding to a report of a man running naked near Prince of Peace Catholic Schools Thursday morning arrested a Madison man a short time later in a hilltop neighborhood near the school.

Anthony Taylor Romans

Zachary Sebastian Campbell

Anthony Taylor Romans, 24, Madison, was arrested for Public Nudity, a Class A misdemeanor and lodged in the Jefferson County Jail. He is also facing a Jefferson County felony warrant for Failure to Appear as well as Jefferson County Community Corrections warrants for a probation violation related to Possession of Methamphetamine, Paraphernalia and Visiting a Common Nuisance and is being held on a combined $6,000 cash bond.

Madison police responded at approximately 7:30 a.m., after a caller reported a male subject running naked on State Street in the area of Prince of Peace Catholic Schools.

The man was last observed running through the wooded area south of Shawe Junior/Senior High School and Pope John Elementary and additional calls were received a short time later placing him in the nearby 300 block of Hillcrest Drive.

Sgt. William Watterson located the man and took him into custody without further incident with assistance by Patrolman Jordan Perry and Madison Consolidated Schools resource officers Tim Armstrong and Yancy Denning.

Elsewhere, Madison Police arrested an Ohio man on Tuesday after he allegedly attempted to exhort $5,000 from a local business owner.

Sebastian Zachary Campbell, 19, of Delta, Ohio, was charged with Communication Intimidation and Possession of a Schedule I, II, III, IV or V Drug, both Level 6 felonies. He was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail on a $1,000 cash bond.

According to MPD, Campbell allegedly threatened to report a local business owner for inappropriate business activities. The business owner reported the attempted extortion to Madison Police Department, which investigated and made the arrest.

Campbell was taken into custody by Madison Police at about 2:29 p.m. on Tuesday in the Madison Lowe's parking lot, where he had allegedly scheduled to meet to receive the $5,000 that was demanded.

Madison Police Detectives Shawn Scudder and Jeremey Perkins are investigating the case.

Here Is A Guaranteed Way To Become A Millionaire

Layin' It on the Line

By Stephen Dylowad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

"Using inflation as a tool, governments can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of their retirees." Steve Dybwad

You can almost imagine the unrestrained joy politicians felt upon reading John Maynard Keynes' words back in the early 1920s. Finally, they had discovered an easy way to finance the government's wild spending sprees and pork-barrel projects without raising taxes (and losing votes!) Inflation gave governments a powerful yet discrete method of taxation, requiring no approval from the voters. The icing on the cake was that inflation's consequences were much less detrimental to political careers than making unpopular budget cuts or increasing tax rates. Thus began the era of addiction to the printing press, unrestrained deficit spending, and an increasingly intrusive government.

Where are we today?
The "easy money" inflation genie rocketed out of the bottle with the force of a cork exiting a champagne bottle. No amount of pressure or commonsense economics could push it back inside. Even the Great Depression, funded partly by easy money economics, could not reverse a course of uncontrolled government spending and money printing.

Inflation is a misunderstood concept that threatens your wealth.
Inflation is one of the most misunderstood economic ideas and the source for much of the evaporation of middle-class wealth in the United States. In simple terms, inflation is a measure that determines the rate of rising prices in an economy.

Catalysts of inflation can include:

Increases in the costs of raw materials

Wage increases

Poor fiscal management by the government.

Specific government actions are undertaken to jumpstart a lackluster economy, such as the so-called "quantitative easing" pursued by the Federal Reserve a few years ago, which also contributes significantly to rising inflation.

Inflation is the "silent" tax.
Sometimes referred to as the "stealth tax," inflation is a more significant threat to your financial future than state or local income taxes. Inflation has proven to be particularly problematic for seniors who are retired. That's because retirees live mainly off the income generated by their retirement accounts, along with Social Security. So, when money loses its purchasing power, the price of necessities increases. Such increases mean that seniors will use up their savings faster, perhaps putting themselves in the position of running out of money early in retirement.

Could we see "billion-dollar" currency denominations?
Disastrous monetary policies such as shameless deficit printing and currency devaluation have existed for the greater part of human history. Unfortunately, though, the United States has taken fiscal irresponsibility to new heights, becoming the most indebted country in world history. Currency turmoil is almost always the outcome of reckless fiscal policy. For example, inflation in the country of Zimbabwe was so high for so long that their entire economic system crashed. This hyper-inflation arose when Zimbabwe's government responded to the out-of-control national debt, political corruption, and a weak economy by increasing the money supply.

Zimbabwe's government caused some of the highest inflation in human history. At one point, it took 1.2 QUADRILLION Zimbabwean dollars to equal $4,000 U.S. dollars! Some scholars suggest that if the U.S. continues on its present course, we could experience similar issues. The bottom line: Inflation is just one of the erosive factors that can undo your best-laid retirement plans and cause you to experience stress and worry when you no longer work. Inflation may be the greatest threat of all because it is little understood and anticipated. If you have a retirement plan in place, now is an excellent time to review that plan with your advisor to ensure you have included provisions to see you through in the event of hyperinflation.

Looking for a new direction on life

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I am 65 years old. I am divorced, and my children are out on their own. I made sure they had a decent life. I have an associate degree and am lacking four classes to finish out my bachelor's degree.

I have found myself at a crossroads. I would like to work for a few more years. I am taking a coding class, but I don't think that is what I want to do. I used to enter a lot of information for a large insurance company years ago.

What are some of your suggestions on what would be best for me at this point in my life? — Starting a New Chapter

Dear Starting: They say when you do what you love, you never work a day in your life. Consider some of your hobbies. Finding a job in an area you enjoy and already have familiarity with will surely help in your transition back into the workforce.

For information on companies that are looking to employ seniors specifically, try visiting AARP.org.

If you're not sure coding is the right fit and no other interests stand out, perhaps you can start with a career aptitude test. It's never too late to find your calling.

Dear Annie: My wife and I have two boys, 10 and 12. For years, my wife has been either brushing their teeth herself — long past when it was appropriate — or hovering over them nightly to ensure they are doing it the "right" way.

Every night she asks them, "Did you do all the things? Pre-rinse? Brush? Floss? Use fluoride?" The kids HATE it. Whether she is doing the brushing or the hovering, it always leads to yelling and screaming, largely in defiance.

In her defense, the hygienist did say that sometimes it's OK for parents to step in like this since kids don't have the ability to get those hard-to-reach places, but the hygienist is not in our home to witness the anxiety and frustration this causes everyone.

I have tried for years to reason with her that this sort of helicoptering has run its course and is now doing more harm than good, even if that means they get a cavity here or there, or need braces (both of which I argue will likely happen regardless!). I think it boils down to the old "no one can get the teeth as clean as me" approach.

I love my wife, but this has become a major bone of contention. Help! — Gritting My Teeth

Dear Gritting: At ages 10 and 12, excessive vigilance is not necessary, and it certainly is not worth having nightly fights over. Your boys will be aware of their smiles, especially around girls, in the next few years. If there is any complaining at that time, don't be surprised if they ask you why you didn't allow Mom to brush their teeth more.

It sounds like you have a close family, and this situation requires compromise. Ask your wife to back off some, so that you can both grit your teeth — you, because she will still be reading off her checklist, and she, because you will openly side with the boys in not taking each dental hygiene step so seriously.

Of course, no matter what, they should keep brushing their teeth.

For teens, cellphones are a privilege — not a right

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I am a single mom of four wonderful boys, two of whom are teenagers. I try my best to be good about discipline, and I take away their internet privileges when they don't do what is expected of them or when they stay up too late playing games online or chatting with friends.

My two oldest sons also have phones, which I confiscate when they misbehave. It really seems to be the only thing that gets their attention and motivates them to get their act together. My oldest son, who is 17, bought his phone from someone a few years ago. It does not get service, but he uses Wi-Fi and apps to communicate with his friends.

He also takes the family phone, which does get service, to school with him so he can text with his girlfriend throughout the day. This phone is meant to be left at home at all times.

When I take his phone away, his argument is that he bought that phone himself and I have no right to take it from him. When I take the family phone away from him, his argument is that he needs it in case his boss tries calling him. He works on weekends; his job isn't even open throughout the week after he gets home from school, so that argument has no validity, in my opinion.

I tell him that as long as he is living under my roof, he has to abide by my rules. I tell him there are consequences for his actions, which include losing his internet and phone privileges for a period of time. He tells me I'm trying to control him and keep him from talking to anyone outside of our home. I tell him that's not true; I'm just doing my job as a parent, and not being able to talk to friends is part of his punishment.

Taking away the internet is my best weapon for discipline in my house. My question is, am I in the wrong for taking his phone that he bought himself? — Mean Mom in Illinois

Dear Mean Mom in Illinois: No, you are not in the wrong for taking away your high schooler's phone and internet privileges, even if he bought it himself. What you are wrong for is signing your letter "Mean Mom." There is nothing mean about disciplining your son; in fact, it is one of the kindest things you can do for a young adult.

Dear Annie: I am in my 60s and totally discombobulated by the losses in my life. I check obituaries before I call someone because so many friends are gone.

I really don't know where to go or what to do. Each friend was so valuable to me. I am like a fish out of water trying to pull myself together only to hear that a couple more have passed.

Please write on this topic. — Loss

Dear Loss: The golden years offer us a choice — to focus on loss or freedom. It's true that as we age, we encounter more death. But it is also true that many of the demands of our youth and middle age are lessened, which gives us more freedom to do what we like.

Get involved with a group from your church or with a hobby — where you can interact and take your mind off so many of your friends' early deaths. Make a list every night before you go to sleep of three things that you are grateful for. A positive attitude promotes good health, while dwelling on the negative reinforces feelings of loss and despair.

McPherson makes FG as time expires, Bengals beat Jags

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Evan McPherson kicked a 35-yard field goal as time ran out to give the Cincinnati Bengals a 24-21 victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars on Thursday night, spoiling Urban Meyer's Ohio return.

Joe Burrow passed for 348 yards and two touchdowns to help the Bengals (3-1) overcome a 14-0 halftime deficit. Burrow, the top overall draft pick in 2020 outdueled the 2021 top pick, Jacksonville quarterback Trevor Lawrence.

Meyer coached Ohio State to the 2014 national championship. He was born in Toledo, grew up in Ashtabula rooting for the Bengals, went to college at Cincinnati, played safety for the Bearcats, got his first coaching job at nearby Saint Xavier High School in 1985, and has two sisters who still live in the area.

Cincinnati had two quick scoring drives to open the second half. James Robinson's second rushing touchdown put Jacksonville (0-4) up again early in the fourth quarter. Burrow answered with a 31-yard touchdown pass to tight end C.J. Uzomah to tie it again.

Another methodical drive set up the kick by McPherson, who has the winners in two of Cincinnati's three wins.

The Jaguars scored in the first half on a 6-yard plunge by Robinson and a 7-yard keeper by Lawrence.

It could have been worse for Cincinnati. Lawrence was stopped by linebacker Logan Wilson on fourth-and-goal at the 1 with under a minute left in the half.

Lawrence was 17 for 24 for 204 yards.

Tyler Boyd had nine receptions for 118 yards for the Bengals. Uzomah had five catches for 95 yards and two touchdowns. Robinson rushed for 78 yards.

INJURIES

Jaguars: WR DJ Chark injured an ankle on the third play of the game and didn't return. ... Guard A.J. Cann (knee) was declared out in the second quarter.

Bengals: None reported.

Rodón returns as White Sox beat Reds for 4th straight win

BY JAY COHEN
AP BASEBALL WRITER

CHICAGO — Carlos Rodón made the most of the stuff he had. That was enough for manager Tony La Russa.

Rodón pitched five scoreless innings in a closely watched start ahead of the playoffs, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-1 on Wednesday night.

"Sometimes you have to go out there and pitch," he said. "Didn't have that overpowering fastball but had some secondary stuff and got weak contact."

Tim Anderson and Gavin Sheets homered as the White Sox (91-68) moved a season-high 23 games above .500 with their fourth consecutive victory. Sheets drove in three runs for the AL Central champions, and Leury García had an RBI single.

Rodón (13-5) allowed one hit, struck out four and walked two in his first start since he lasted just three innings in a 4-3 loss at Detroit on Sept. 20. The All-Star left-hander reported some arm soreness after his previous outing that he described as normal, but it drew some concern from La Russa.

Rodón's 24 starts and 132 2/3 innings are his highest totals since 2016, well beyond his totals in the previous two years combined. While acknowledging the strain of the increased workload, Rodón said he isn't going to use that as an excuse.

"As you see, I still go out there and I go do my job," he said. "I have to go win for a team, that's what I'm going to do."

If Rodón can keep going in the postseason, he could provide a big lift for the White Sox. La Russa said he is interested in how he feels on Thursday.

Rodón improved to 5-0 with a 1.93 ERA over his last six starts. While he didn't have his usual velocity, topping out at 92.7 mph, he breezed through a Reds lineup missing two of the team's best hitters. He threw 69 pitches, 43 strikes for strikes.

"We didn't ask him, 'Hey, show us that you can get in the upper 90s,' " La Russa said. "That wasn't the way it was. I thought he made pitches."

Delino DeShields hit an RBI double in the ninth for Cincinnati, which finished with four hits. First baseman Joey Votto and outfielder Nick Castellanos rested a day after the Reds (82-77) were eliminated from playoff contention.

Cincinnati right-hander Sonny Gray (7-9) was charged with five runs and five hits in 4 2/3 innings.

"Really good stuff, really good," manager David Bell said. "Maybe just missed off more than he caught the plate. ... Definitely could have been a different night."

Sheets drove in García with his 11th homer in the third, going deep in back-to-back games for the first time in his career. The rookie also singled in Yoán Moncada in the fourth.

Anderson tacked on his 17th homer in the seventh, a solo drive to right-center off Jeff Hoffman.

Anderson started at shortstop after he decided to appeal a three-game suspension for making contact with umpire Tim Timmons during Monday's 8-7 win at Detroit. He also was fined.

WORTH WATCHING

Michael Kopech pitched three scoreless innings in relief of Rodón, striking out three and walking two. The White Sox are giving Kopech some multi-inning appearances in the final days of the season in case they need an extended outing from him in the playoffs.

FINISHING UP

Reiver Sanmartin will make his second big league start in Cincinnati's season finale Sunday at Pittsburgh. The 25-year-old left-hander pitched 5 2/3 innings of one-run ball in the Reds' 13-1 victory over the Pirates on Monday.

Colts give Mack opportunity to find trade, more playing time

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Marlon Mack is looking for a new NFL home.

The Indianapolis Colts running back told reporters Thursday he and team officials have reached an agreement that allows him to find a trading partner where he could get more playing time. It's the first time Mack has spoken publicly since ESPN.com first reported he was seeking a trade.

"It's tough when you get used to guys and things like that," he said. "But on the business side, sometimes you've got to speak for yourself because that's what you need."

He started for two years in Indy, logging his first 1,000-yard season in 2019. He was expected to carry a heavier burden last season until tearing his right Achilles tendon in the first half of the season opener. Jonathan Taylor replaced Mack, finished as the league's top rookie rusher, and kept the job when he returned this season.

Coach Frank Reich's initial plan was to split carries between Taylor and Mack, but Nyheim Hines moved into the No. 2 spot before signing a contract extension just ahead of this season's opener.

And even though the winless Colts have struggled to run the ball against three strong defenses, Mack's role continued to fade. He didn't take a snap in the opener and was inactive for Sunday's loss at Tennessee.

Mack said he's recovered completely from the injury.

If so, he certainly could be an attractive addition for a team hit hard by injuries at the position, such as the Rams, 49ers and Seahawks in the NFC West. He signed a one-year, $2 million contract to return to the Colts and at age 25 could still make an impact for several more years.

"As a running back, they say I'm an old man already," he said, drawing laughter. "That's why I'm like I've got to go out there and get it now because next year's teams will be like I don't want that old running back and I'm only to be like 25 still, but they think I'm an old guy."

The Colts took Mack in the third round of the 2017 NFL draft. He played his rookie season in the shadow of Frank Gore before replacing Gore in 2018 when he rushed for 908 yards and nine touchdowns in 12 games. He finished 2019 with 1,091 and eight scores in 14 games but has only nine carries for 42 yards in two games since.

Taylor said Mack's demeanor hasn't changed since his trade request went public. Instead, Taylor said, he continues to provide coaching tips while the running backs are still pulling for one another.

"I'm going to miss my guys," Mack said. "Our room is special with the type of guys like J.T., me, Nyheim, Jordan (Wilkins) and even Deon (Jackson). We love each other, we cheer each other and that's something that's going to be tough. I'm definitely going to miss it. Every room is not like that and that's going to be hard."

No. 4 Penn State hoping the run game works against Indiana

BY TRAVIS JOHNSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — Penn State has already won big games in marquee environments, using big plays and a stingy defense to do so.

None of the No. 4 Nittany Lions' victories has left the team's biggest players satisfied, however. The 300-pounders up front are eager to get another shot when Indiana (2-2, 0-1 Big Ten) visits Beaver Stadium tonight (7:30 p.m./ABC).

"We focused on our mission for this week, which is physicality," right tackle Caedan Wallace said. "It's collective, the front seven and the running backs. We're going to improve this week. We're going to run the ball."

The Nittany Lions (4-0, 1-0) know a run to their first College Football Playoff appearance won't be possible unless they can.

Even with a 48-carry, 240-yard effort against Ball State, the Nittany Lions are ranked 111th in rushing offense so far. While they've settled in with a strong starting five — tackles Wallace and Rasheed Walker, guards Juice Scruggs and Eric Wilson centered by Mike Miranda — the group hasn't yet played with the mindset that position coach Phil Trautwein wants.

The team's offensive line coach has noticed defenders have been able to successfully plug holes at the line and keep Penn State's linemen from developing their second-level blocks.

"We just have to get better at that and make sure our eyes are right and make sure our footwork is perfect and keep building off those fundamentals," Trautwein said.

If Penn State needs motivation to play with more of an edge, it would make sense to point at the last meeting with Indiana. The Hoosiers kickstarted Penn State's disastrous 2020 season when they scored a controversial 2-point conversion in overtime to snap a six-game losing streak in the series.

They also have played pretty well against the run, allowing just 108 yards per game so far.

Head coach James Franklin dismissed any idea of "revenge" earlier this week, but did challenge his running backs to step up and boost the offensive line.

Kentucky seeks to limit turnovers against No. 10 Gators

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Kentucky's prospects of winning its biggest game in several years likely depends on its ability to protect the ball better than it has all season.

The Wildcats (4-0, 2-0 Southeastern Conference) are tied for last in FBS with 11 turnovers and next to last in margin at minus-9. Fortunately for them, those giveaways haven't hurt much because of a stingy, resilient defense that has made clutch plays to preserve close SEC wins over South Carolina and Missouri.

Those wins have put them in early SEC East contention entering tonight's showdown (6 p.m./ESPN) against No. 10 Florida (3-1, 1-1). Staying there means not giving the Gators easy opportunities.

"There's no excuse when we have to clean up the turnovers, the fumbles in particular," Kentucky coach Mark Stoops said this week. "I believe it's something that we can get corrected, and we will."

The Wildcats are off to their best start since beginning 5-0 in 2018, a breakthrough season boosted by their road upset of the Gators that snapped a 31-game series losing streak. Expectations are just as high this season and meeting them starts with Kentucky earning its first home win over Florida since 1986.

To pull off another upset, Kentucky will need a sustained offensive effort and that's been a struggle in recent weeks. Three turnovers each time haven't helped, though Kentucky's defense has limited the damage in instances such as last week's 16-10 win at South Carolina. They held the Gamecocks to just a late field goal after stopping them on downs on consecutive fourth-quarter possessions.

"You view the situation as a detriment or as a challenge, an opportunity to do something really special," defensive coordinator Brad White said of the response. "We've got some great senior leaders, and that entire unit believes they can rise up in big moments."

The Panthers took 26 attempts in the game — 11 on frame — while dominating the Quakers in every phase of the game.

Maggie Day picked up the hat trick with three goals while Kelsey Hughes and Josie Dattilo each added scores. Autumn Boothby had two assists and Bryn Rolfsen had one.

Hanover, now 6-0-2 overall and 1-0 in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference, travels to Wooster today.

HANOVER OPENS HCAC WITH WIN

Hanover men's soccer opened Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference play with a 4-0 win over Earlham in Richmond, Indiana, on Wednesday.

Josh Hughes scored two goals for the Panthers while Fernando Martin and Keegan Marx each had one. Xander Ochsner had two assists for Hanover.

The Panthers held a 17-1 advantage in shots, including 13-1 on goal. Goalie Luciano Salemi had a save.

Hanover, now 5-3-1 overall and 1-0 in the HCAC, travels to Bluffton today.

REBELS LOSE TO RIPLEY 1-0

A South Ripley goal off a corner kick in the first half proved to be the game-winner as the Raiders beat Southwestern 1-0 in girls soccer on Thursday in Hanover.

The game, which got started late, was called due to darkness with 20 minutes to play.

"We celebrated our seniors tonight: Cadence Humes, Shelby Howard, Jess Esquivel, Julia Worcester, Peyton Howell and our manager Paula Romero-Losa," Southwestern coach Nancy Totten said. "Almost all of our players are battling a physical ailment or injury so we are grateful to have a week break to heal before our first sectional game."

Southwestern finished the regular season with a 3-10 overall record and 1-7 in the ORVC. The Rebels face Austin in the opening round of the IHSAA Class A Sectional at Christian Academy on Thursday.

CARROLL GIRLS FALL 5-0

Carroll County girls soccer lost 5-0 at home to North Oldham on Thursday.

The Panthers, now 8-10 on the season, traveled to Calvary Christian on Friday to close out the regular season. The 31st District Tournament begins next week but pairings have not yet been announced.
